MEMO

Welcome to the World of Timmy Failure, Ace Detective!

ATTENTION: Detectives in Training

Welcome to Total Failure, Inc., the kid-run detective agency that is sure to tickle your students' funny bones and inspire them to become top investigators. That is, if they can stop laughing at the clueless CEO, Timmy, and his sidekick polar bear, Total.

In the enclosed kit for budding crime solvers, your students will learn how to identify the four obstacles detectives face (yes, there are only four), solve cases and become masters at deciphering clues (no matter how obvious), learn the all-important detective lingo by passing a vocabulary test (using Timmy's foolproof method), and maybe even write their own mystery story to boot!

CONFIDENTIAL: While doing these activities, your students are bound to think critically and creatively and learn some new and very useful vocabulary. Do NOT let on that any of this is educational!

Visit www.timmyfailure.com for printable vocabulary cards, activities, and how-to-doodle videos with Stephan Pastis himself!

TIMMY FAILURE

The Challenge!

Timmy begins the prologue of Timmy Failure: Mistakes Were Made with the three sentences given below – except we've left some blanks so you can create your own versions. Each missing word is a noun (i.e., an object, animal, or person) (but you knew that, right?). First brainstorm a list of nouns. Then choose three nouns from the list and fill in the blanks. Do they make sense? Timmy's lines make perfect sense. If you don't believe me, read Timmy's actual lines from the prologue to Timmy Failure: Mistakes Were Made.

It's harder to drive a _____
(noun 1)

into somebody's _____ than you'd think.
(noun 2)

You need a _____
(noun 2)

that's big enough to fit a _____.
(noun 3)

You need a _____
(noun 3)

that's big enough to fit a _____.
(noun 1)

And you need a _____ (noun 1)

that's big enough to not point out your errors.

TIMMY FAILURE

Overcoming Obstacles: The Key to Success!

Unfortunately, Timmy Failure faces four obstacles to success as a detective:

his mother

his school

his best friend

his fifteen-hundred-pound polar bear

As a detective, you'll face obstacles too, but no more than four. (No successful detective has ever faced more than four obstacles. No successful detective has ever faced fewer than four obstacles. Remember, four is the magic number.) List your four obstacles and sketch a picture of each:

1. my _____

2. my _____

3. my _____

4. my _____

TIMMY FAILURE

Master of Disguise

A great detective needs to protect his identity while he prowls around searching for clues.

Draw a disguise for Timmy that will keep him hidden from potential suspects.

TIMMY FAILURE

Design Your Own Failuremobile

No professional detective can get around without a sleuthy set of wheels. In Timmy Failure: Mistakes Were Made, Timmy rides a Segway to follow clues and make great first impressions on potential clients.

What would you choose as the mode of transport for your detective agency? Draw it here.

Advertise Your Awesome Agency Services

Timmy may not be much of a case solver, but his detective lingo is without parallel.

To create an advertisement for your own detective agency, fill in the top blank of the template that follows with your agency's name. Then create the text of your ad from this glossary of Timmy's many sayings – or make up your own. Fill in the last blank with your agency's motto.

(Are you facing . . .)

- industrial sabotage
- major international intrigue
- a possible lawsuit
- an unsolved crime, such as candy larceny, hamster-cide, or TP vandalism

(We offer . . .)

- invaluable expertise
- multipronged strategies
- brilliantly conceived global planning
- teleconferencing capabilities
- high-tech surveillance equipment
- free cheese

(We are experienced in . . .)

- uncanny clue detection
- never-fail interrogation techniques
- making excellent first impressions (they are critical)
- investigatory enterprise
- ingenious infiltration tactics
- overall greatness
